M. Rev. and dear Fr. Giuseppe,

From the bottom of my heart I reciprocate the most fraternal and priestly greetings of Easter; May the blessed Jesus rise in our hearts and in our souls. Oh how I enjoy and thank the Lord who gives you the opportunity to do good for souls: continue, continue and blessed are you at the point of death; how comforting this thought will be of us: I have helped my God in saving souls. Keep in mind that doing good costs pain and trials, but these benefit our souls so much. The ordered life, the inner life, is of great help to move forward ourselves, and to improve our souls [...]

Dear brothers and sisters of the Calabrian Family, Shalom!

We are about to celebrate the HOLY EASTER of the Resurrection in our Jubilee Year! Taking inspiration from the words of Saint John Calabria, I invite our whole charismatic family to return to souls, the poorest, the loneliest, the most abandoned; it is there that we will meet the face of the Risen Christ and it is there that we are called to experience our Easter.

Let us see to it that Jesus, the Living One, is resurrected from the tombs in which we have enclosed Him; let us free Him from the formalities in which we have often imprisoned Him; Let us awaken from the sleep of the quiet life in which we have sometimes laid Him, so that we are no more disturbed and live comfortably. Let us bring Him into our day-to-day life: with gestures of peace especially in this time that is marked by the horrors of war; with works of reconciliation in broken relationships and compassion towards those in need; with actions of justice in the midst of inequalities and truth in the midst of lies. And, above all, with works of love and fraternity. The opposite of death is not life, but it is love! Let us carry out works of love among ourselves and with the souls entrusted to us and you will see that the light of Easter Morning will also enter our homes, lives and our communities.

Let us give meaning to this Easter! Let's give meaning to our lives! Let's give meaning to the Calabrian Family! Let us carry out good deeds, let us love, let us put love into circulation, and let us thank the Father in Heaven who gives us the opportunity to do so!

Happy Easter to all of you, to your families, to the people you will meet; Remember: do good for souls, everything else is nothing! Let us resurrect Christ in our relationships and in our actions. There is a need, there is a great need for it!

Don't be afraid to try! Do not be afraid to raise Christ in you!

Happy Easter from the heart!

Your brother and father
